

Columbia in PARIS
 French Immersion and English

Spend a semester or the full academic year drawing upon the resources of one of the world’s most fabled and beloved capitals. Take one-of-a-kind courses, pursue individual research, and surround yourself in the French language and culture. Push yourself out of your comfort zone, expand your ways of thinking, and find your passion in the City of Light. In the end, you will find yourself more confident in your role as a global citizen, capable of living, working, and affecting change beyond your national boundaries.

Study in French

Challenge yourself both academically and personally by immersing yourself in the French language through your coursework and daily life. Depending on your goals, you will choose from a broad range of options in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences.

French Language Curriculum

Based on a language assessment, you will take part in one (1) or two (2) language courses. Both courses are designed to help you succeed in your academic work in French.

Language Requirements

Minimum of four (4) semesters of French language required, including the term before going abroad.

Learn more on the UGE website

Study in English

During the Fall semester, explore the cosmopolitan city of Paris while completing coursework in English. Through your coursework, you will have the opportunity to understand French history, economics, politics, art, and culture in entirely new ways.

Academics

You will choose a mix of courses at Reid Hall, Columbia’s Global Center in France, and Sciences Po, a renowned institution in the social sciences.

Language Requirements

None, but French-language instruction is available at all levels.

Learn more on the UGE website